

PARTICIPANT AGREEMENT

eve expeditions take your safety very seriously and we work hard to ensure that the level of risk is minimised. Any activity in the outdoors increases the level of hazard and risk. Risks could be from slip, trips and falls, damage to personal property through to major injury and in extreme circumstances, loss of life.

As part of the booking process, by ticking the box on the booking conditions, you are declaring that you understand that we are making you aware of these risks and that you are aware of these risks and the possible outcomes.

eve expeditions hold public liability insurance.

We aim to deliver all activities as safe as possible and all activities have been risk assessed to minimise any exposure to risks and hazards. You will be briefed before any activity by a qualified instructor. All leaders hold suitable qualifications and experience to deliver the activity. We check these qualifications before employing any third-party supplier or freelance leader.

You can ask our staff and leaders at any time, their advice about the activities or your suitability, your health or clothing needed and any food requirements. Should you choose not to take this advice or disregard any advice given to you by our staff or instructors, you do so voluntarily and therefore accept liability for any resulting injuries or damage caused to you or others in the group.

Please let us know if you have any questions relating to this policy by emailing info@eveexpeditions.org.uk
